Twenty seniors recognized from graduating class

This year, the selection of Outstanding Seniors was left entirely up to the senior class. Nominations were held in senior homerooms early second semester, and qualified seniors were placed on the first ballot. Because there were so many nominees, two ballots were taken, and from these, twenty seniors were picked. Each senior chosen has been recognized for excellence in some particular field, be it music, art, athletics, or some form of service to school.

ROBIN CALDWELL

A pretty girl with a charming personality, Robin has devoted her time to Page both in GYC and in her service club, Civinettes. She can be expected to do a thorough job in whatever she undertakes and has definitely proven her merit as an Outstanding Senior.

CHUCK KING

Chuck is an earnest individual who takes his responsibilities seriously. He has proven outstanding in service to school by his capable leadership of the Inter-Service Club Council. He has well earned the honor of Most Dependable superlative.

MARTHA CRUTCHFIELD
Martha has versatile interests and is outstanding in many ways. Students know her not only as a cheerleader, but also for her beauty and her service to the school. She is a leader in all activities and her energy and enthusiasm has helped to revive school spirit at Page.

CHARLIE BARRIER

School government is a prime interest for Charlie, as shown by his active participation in Student Council during his years at Page. He is known by his peers for his intelligence; learning is a compelling desire for Charlie.

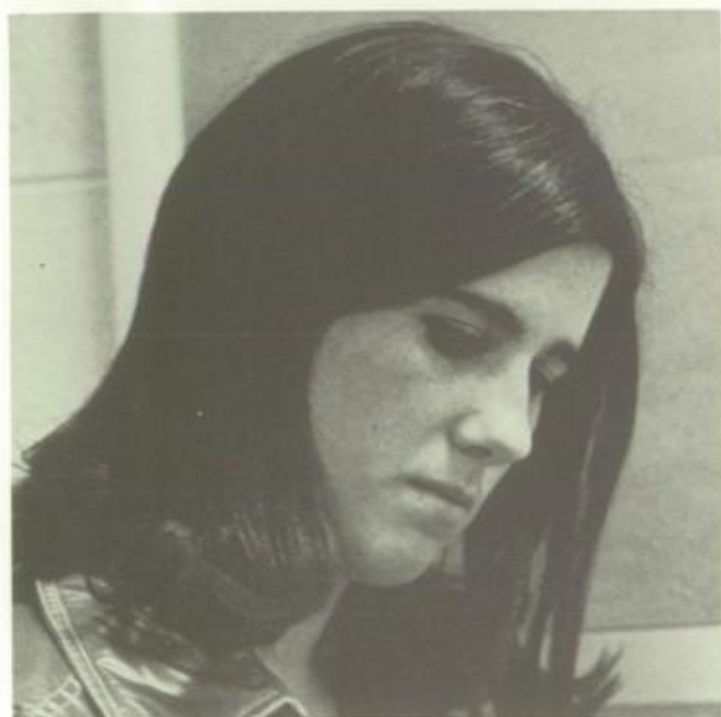

CHARLES ROBINSON

Charles is tall, blond, and cute, and definitely one of the most well-rounded students at Page. He is a fine athlete and also a fine class president. He puts total effort into every endeavor and always succeeds in what he's doing.

KIM MCGREGOR

Kim has shown his genuine concern for Page by the active role he has taken in both school and community. His participation in Council and on GYC projects takes up much of his time. In these ways, Kim has dedicated himself toward the betterment of Page High School.

KATIE ALLEN

Whoever said laughter is the best medicine must have had Katie in mind. She has an unbelievable sense of humor, but can also be serious when necessary. Katie is always willing to do favors for anybody and has been a great asset to the Buccaneer staff for the past two years.

BEVERLY DEBERRY

Bev is a girl of many moods. Most people know her for her sense of humor and clowning antics, but she also has a serious side. She is recognized for . . . well, just for being Bev.

JODY KIRKPATRICK

Jody has exhibited great talent as an artist and many have praised her fine artwork. She is a fine gal, always friendly, and can be recognized for her sincerity and cute disposition.

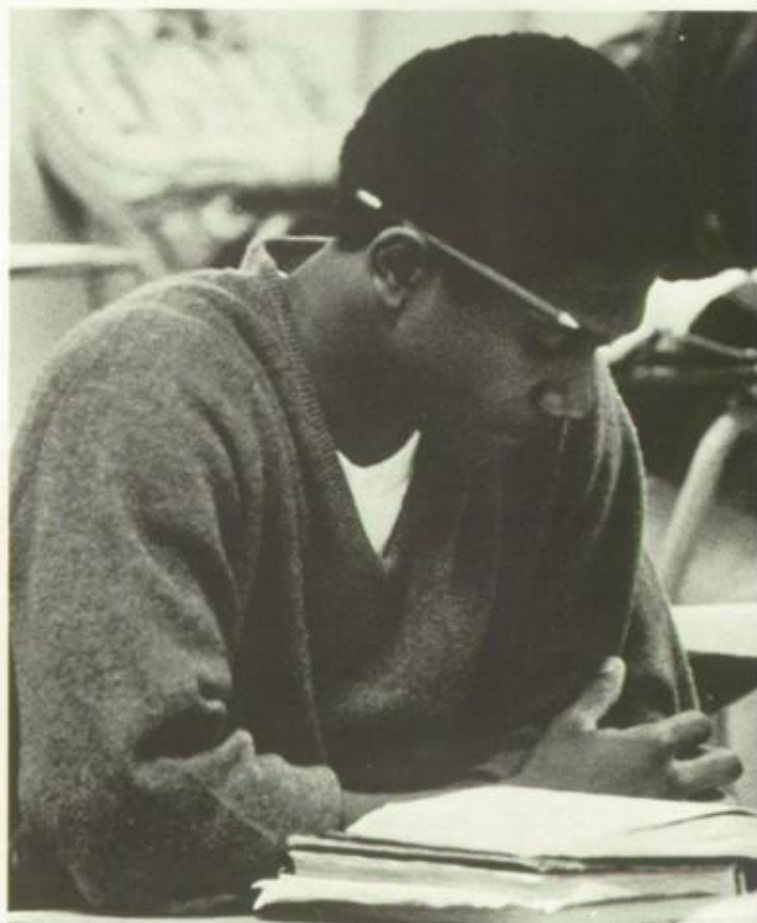

ALAN PINKELTON

Good looks, a sheepish grin, and bright blue eyes are Alan's outstanding physical features, but he has many other interior qualities as well. In the past year he has emerged as a capable leader and has proven an excellent student body president. His genuine warmth and sincerity distinguish him among his classmates, and to all who know him, he is a real "chum."

DAVID FLORANCE

Singing comes easily for David and his beautiful voice can be heard distinctly in the Page choir. Besides singing, David has many hobbies, and he is just an all-around nice guy.

RAY HARRISON

Ray Harrison is a name well-known in athletic circles all over Greensboro. His skills on the football field and on the basketball court have won much recognition for himself and Page. Ray is definitely Page's most outstanding athlete.

KAREN MCBEE

Ask Karen to do something and she'll do it! She was voted the superlative of Most Dependable, and dependable she certainly is. Karen has contributed much to the effectiveness of Student Council through her services as a Council Representative and as student body secretary.

Class of seventy-one picks Outstanding Seniors

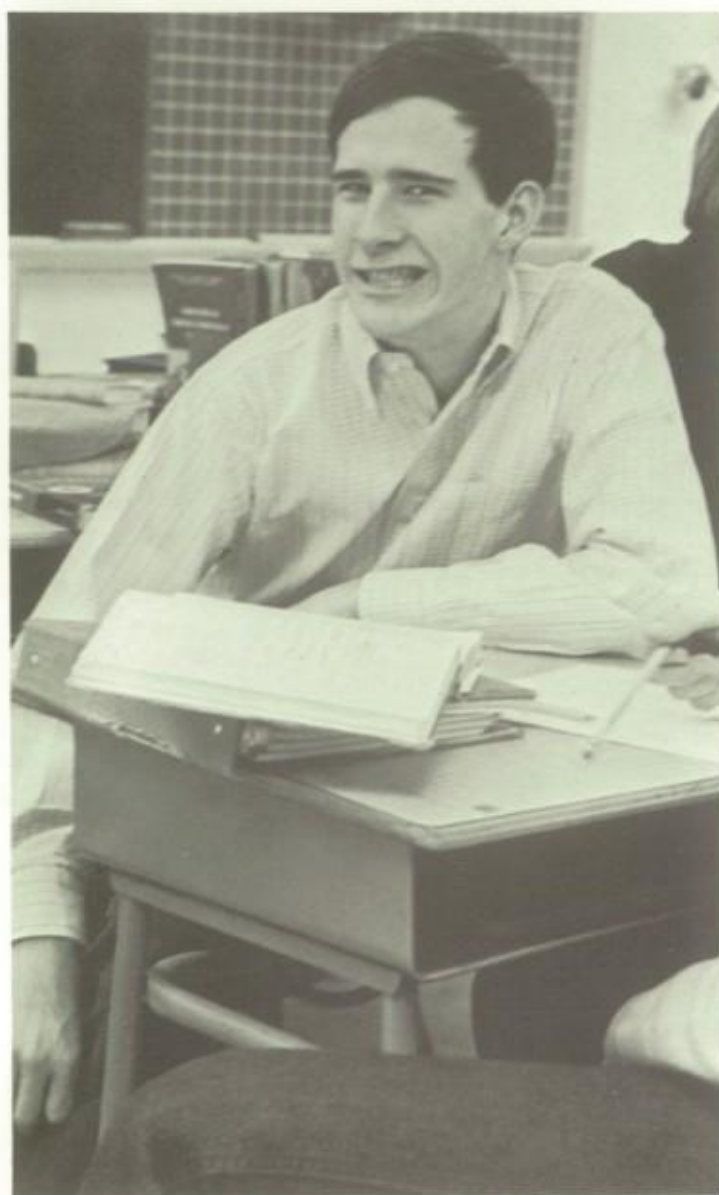

FREDDY BEAMAN

Freddy is the little guy with the big heart. He always has a smile for everyone and he attracts many a person with his warm personality. A great many activities have kept him busy at Page.

GRACE LI

Grace's talent in the field of art is unlimited. She has devoted many hours into developing her talent and this has won her recognition as an Outstanding Senior.

CHRIS LOWE

Personality is Chris Lowe and Chris certainly has quite an abundance of it. His clever wit has entertained many a class and he sparks enthusiasm in whatever he does, whether it's in the classroom or on the basketball court.

Outstanding Seniors give leadership to school

MEL BRINGLE

Studies come first for Mel, and it is no wonder that she has placed in the top percentage of her class. Mel is honored not only for her scholastic abilities, but also for her contribution to the beautification of Page.

VICKI LEWIS

Vicki is a loudmouth, but she has put her voice to good advantage. She can be heard all over the stands at games, cheering loudly for the Pirates. School spirit and a quick wit are Vicki's outstanding attributes.

KIM SMITH

In the past year, Kim has emerged as one of Page's better athletes. He is good in all sports and his rugged appearance and good looks certainly depict him as a typical handsome athlete.

EDITH WHITE

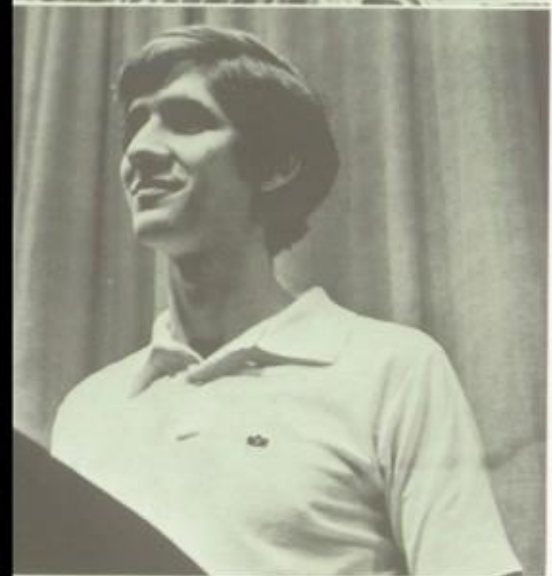

Edith has combined brains and charm into her personality. Definitely a superior student, she always strives for the best and has been an active participant in Student Council. Though usually quiet, she will always speak out for what she believes is right.

Elections promote interest in student government

Elections for the 1970-71 school year began with the election of junior and senior class officers last spring. Many students vied for class positions, but only a few had successful campaigns. Those who were elected had many new ideas for increasing interest in student government.

In the fall, sophomore elections were held. For sophomores, this was their first big chance to be a part of Page, and enthusiasm was great. The sophomores elected were then acquainted with Council and all three classes worked together to make this an eventful year at Page.

Assembly honors foreign student Martine Thomas

Student body president Alan Pinkleton opened the 1970-1971 school year with an assembly in the gym as he welcomed the New Dimensions, a folk rock group recently returned from a world tour. Next, a speaker for Junior Achievement addressed the sophomore, junior, and senior classes individually, urging participation in this program. An outstanding as sembly was held at Thanksgiving honoring the season and the Guilford County bi-centennial. The junior marshals were also installed at this time. Later in the year, Page's foreign exchange student Martine Thomas was honored at a special assembly. Under Greg Richardson's capable planning, Page's assemblies proved very successful.

YRC sponsors many open houses

Open houses are an important part of Page's social life and they proved to be quite successful this year. YRC, headed by John Strandberg, put much preparation into these dances and hired many top bands from the area to attract students. Among these groups were Bob Collins and the Fabulous Five, the Hard Times, and the Emphatics. Open houses were held after several football games and a Halloween dance was held late in October. Sadie Hawkins Day proved to be a big success again this year, as is usually the case when the boys are asked by the girls.

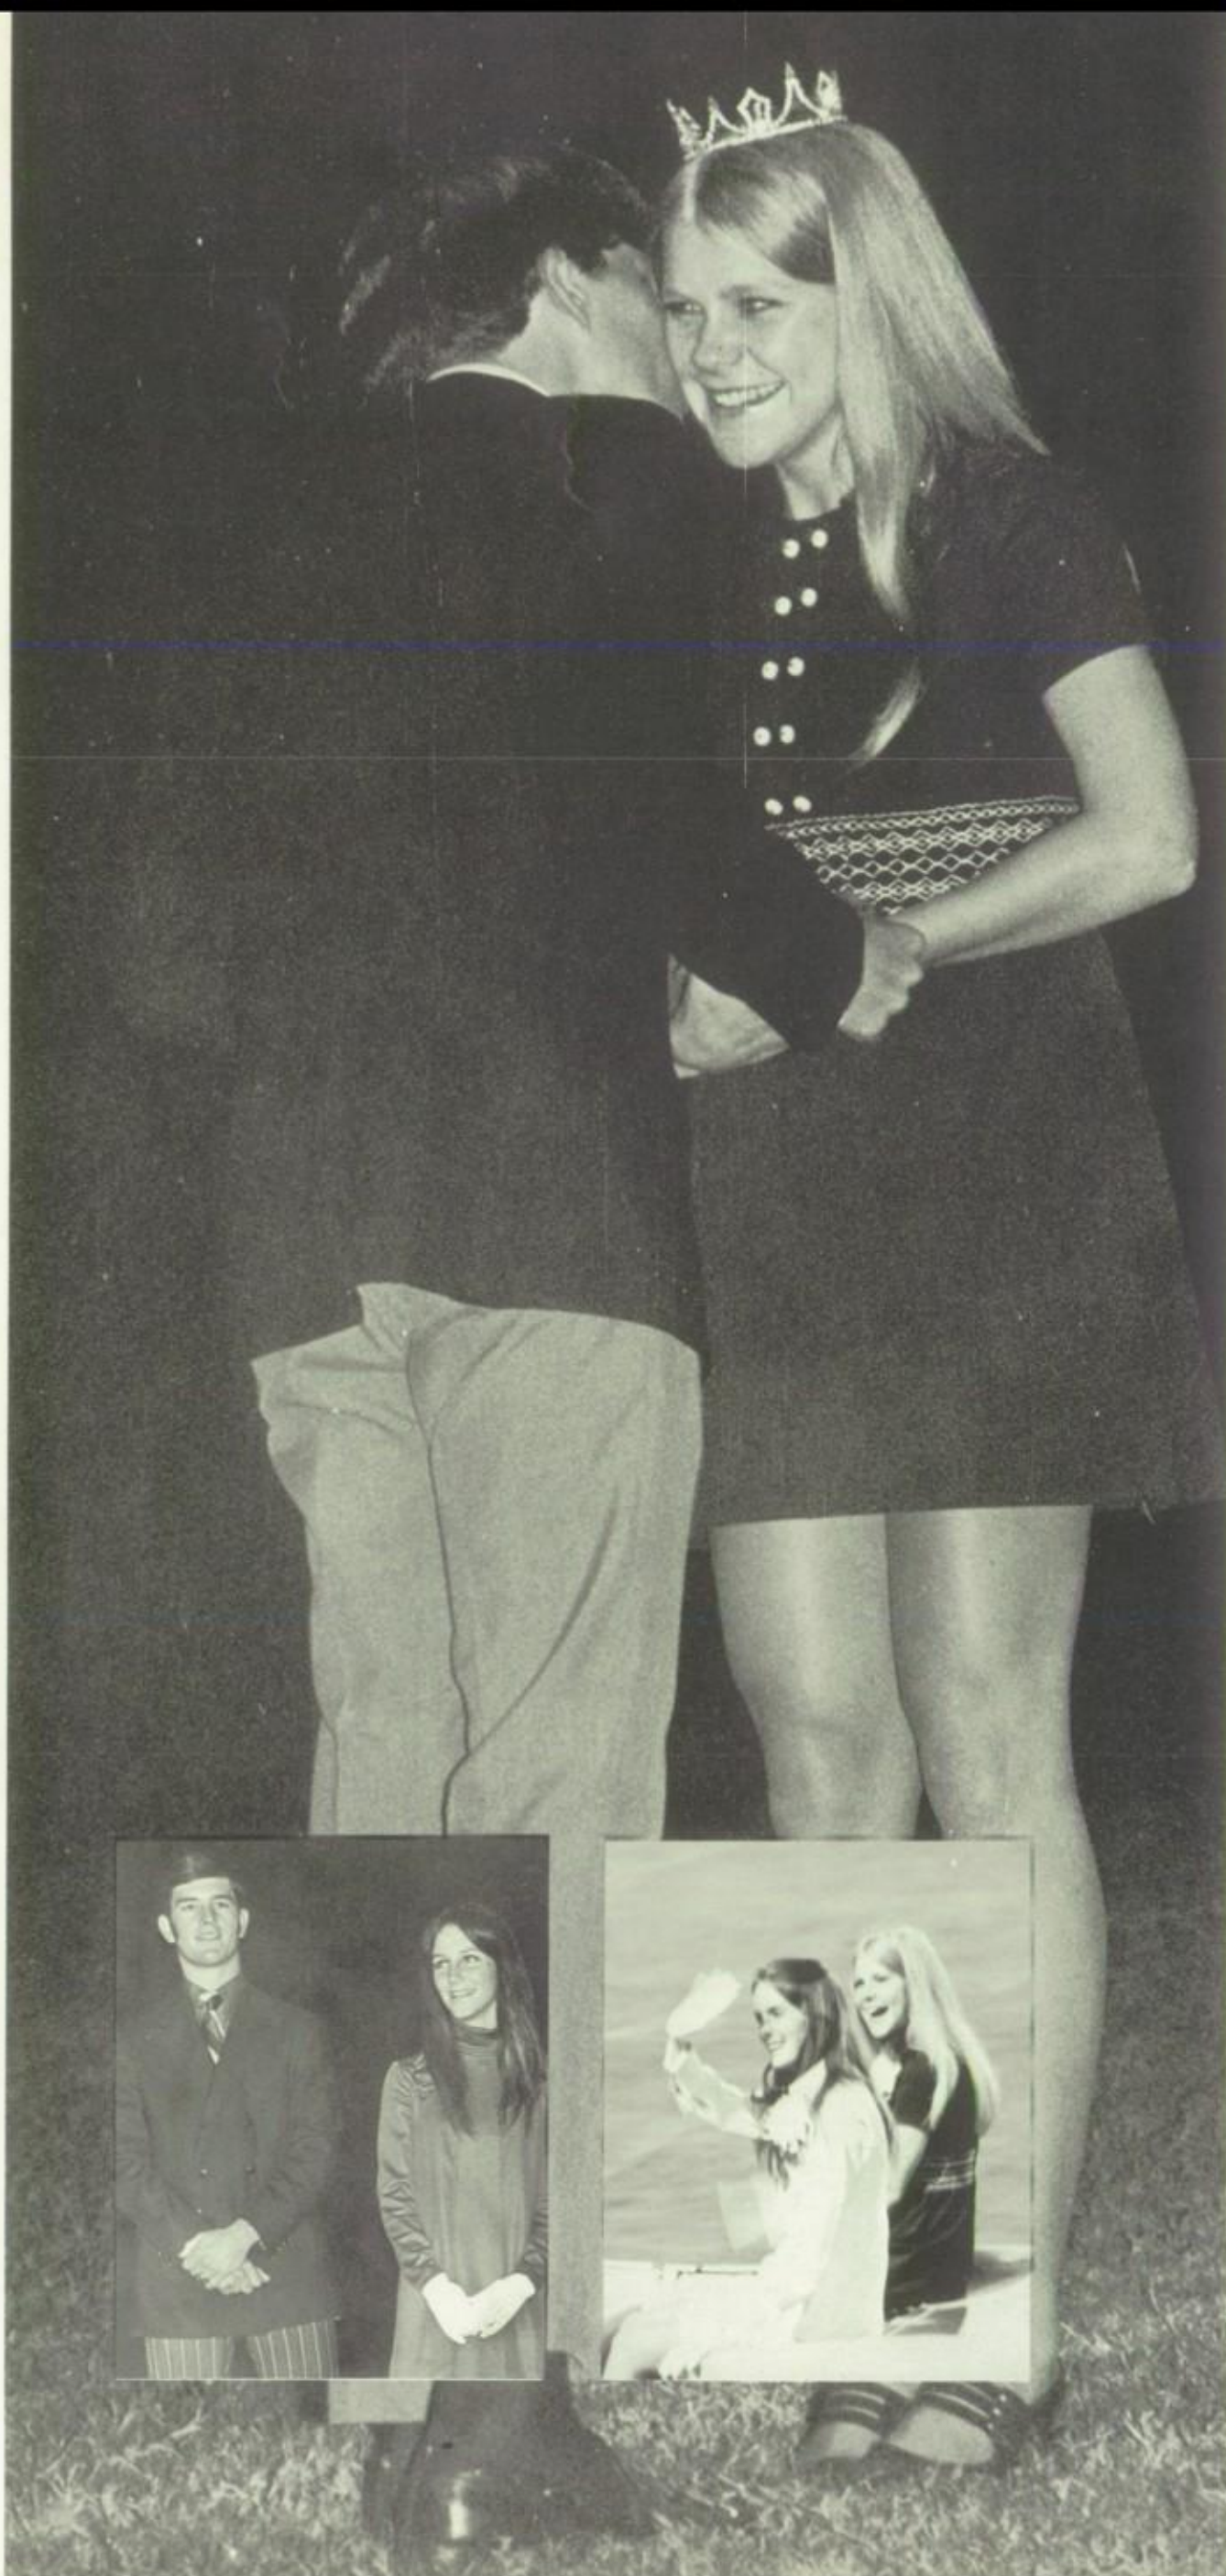

Page downs Grimsley to headline Pep Week

Spirits rose to a peak this year during the annual Pep Week which preceded the Grimsley game. Sponsored by the cheerleaders, Top'em Day, Stomp'Em Day, Clash 'Em Day and Lick 'Em Day were celebrated on the first four days of the week. On Friday, students wore red and white, the school colors, and school closed with an exciting pep rally. Students decorated the halls and cars with colorful banners, streamers, and dead Whirliebirds. Pep Week reached its climax at the game Friday night and the Pirates toppled the arch rival Whirlies 24-8.

Twenty-four girls were selected by the students this year to represent the 1970 Homecoming Court. Of these girls, two were sophomores, five were juniors, and seventeen were from the senior class. The girls were honored during halftime at the Parkland game Friday night. Martha Crutchfield was announced Maid of Honor and then Alan Pinkleton crowned Nancy Hermanson Homecoming Queen. The Pirates celebrated their win over Parkland at the open house after the game which honored the queen and her court.

Mr. Newton honored

The awards assembly, held in May, honored many of the students and faculty. The O'Henry Juniors received the award for the best service club. Both Ernie McLean and Maurice Spencer received several awards. A very special moment in the assembly came with the dedication of the school yearbook to the outgoing principal, M. Robert A. Newton.

Joy . . .
and a few tears

Graduation exercises were held at Greensboro Auditorium on June 5. For the graduating seniors, it was a very special evening as it marked a milestone in their lives. Understandably there were mixed emotions: joy at finally achieving that cherished diploma, anticipation of what the future might bring, and a few tears at the thought of leaving behind the wonderful memories of Page High School.

Student Council works hard with Alan Pinkelton

Council's first job this year was to plan Homecoming activities. The number of representatives on the court was increased to twenty-four. Cars for the procession were donated by the student body. A parliamentary procedure workshop was held to acquaint council members with rules of order. The school constitution was revised in order for students to understand their rights and duties. Best Citizen elections were held each six weeks. One boy and one girl from each class were elected. Student council's money-making project was the film festival, shown to the students of Page and their families. The film "Wait Until Dark" started the project. The film festival project provided money for the Pirate Ball. Under the leadership of Alan Pinkelton, the student council had a very active and successful year.

Patti Hodgin led Pep Committee to an active year with new ideas that greatly boosted school spirit. The most memorable of these events was the plane that was flown over the Grimsley pep rally the day of the Page-Grimsley game.

The Spirit days, caravans to home games, the "school spirited" car contest, and mascot elections were all sponsored by Pep Committee. The shakers and spirit buttons were sold by members as the money making projects.

Students offer their time and assistance

Under the direction of Mrs. Rankin and Miss Shelburne the library assistants were essential to the smooth running of the library. Their jobs were those such as stamping and shelving books.

The job of being an office assistant is also a very important one. Working hard in the school office, students filed papers and ran errands. These students and their work have been invaluable to the running of Page.

John Strandberg leads Page Youth Recreation Committee

Page's 1970-71 Youth Recreation Committee started off the year with a big Homecoming Dance featuring Bob Collins and the Fabulous Five. Chairman John Strandberg and the other members worked hard making decorations with the theme of the movie "Yellow Submarine." The second dance was a success as Page students celebrated their victory over Grimsley. There were other dances after football and basketball games which had such groups to play as Hard Times and the Emphatics. The Sadie Hawkins Day Dance was held in the month of November. On Thanksgiving Day YRC took part in the annual Greensboro Christmas parade. YRC, composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, deserves much credit for having provided Page students with entertainment throughout the school year.

Pirates clean grounds

Beautification Committee began an active year of service to Page by clearing Page Street of unsightly trash. Under chairman Mel Bringle, the committee urged students to show school spirit and pride by participating in the workdays. Landscaping was centered on improving Treasure Island with new shrubs and paths. Anti-Litter Week was another operation sponsored by Beautification Committee in the same month as the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest. Before Christmas, the halls of Page were brightened with the committee's decorations. Gardening and clean-up continued in the spring to enhance the campus.

Red Cross aids community

Page's Chapter of the American Red Cross acted as a community service organization, reaching out to meet the needs of the community. Working closely with the Greensboro Chapter, the members continued their work with the patients at Evergreens. Page ARC helped with day care nurseries. They were also active in the collection of money for Red Cross work with disaster victims.

Debate Team travels throughout North Carolina

With a team of eleven, the Debate team traveled to Chapel Hill several times to practice debates and attend meetings. In February, the team was represented by four of its members in the regional tournament. Most of the debating pertained to the issues of federal control of water and air pollution. With the experience of Lew Warren and John Grey, the Debate Team had an active year.

Honor Society assumes new activities

The Torchbearer's Chapter of the National Honor Society relates best to the students of Page High School, through the activities of the society's members. The society's ideal of scholarship was furthered through the tutoring of students in various subjects. The ideals of service, character, and leadership were furthered through the elections of "Best Citizens," recognition of outstanding students, and averaging of six-week grades per homeroom. The torchbearer's chapter was outstanding because their principles of scholarship, leadership, character, and service were constantly encouraged throughout the year.

Page's literary honor society published the literary magazine, Inklings, made up of material from poetry, short stories, and art work collected from recommended contributors and interested volunteers at Page. New members were welcomed at the beginning of the year and plans were made to recruit more sophomores and juniors before the end of the year. Quill and Scroll strived to promote creative writing, artistic self-expression and to provide a medium through which talented students could demonstrate their work.

This year's Buccaneer marks Page's thirteenth yearbook

Jill Williams, editor, led the 1971 Buccaneer staff in producing Page's thirteenth yearbook. Beginning with a successful advertisement drive in August, the final production was presented in May. Writing copy, cropping pictures, and drawing layouts were only a few of the jobs required of the staff members.

Lisa Blank and Kay Phillips work furiously to finish before the deadline.

Terri Gross and Caryn Shackelford prepare layouts.

Patti Bean types copy.

Newspaper staff turns out larger issues

Pages by Page turned out more and larger issues this year, with three special issues. Traditional letters to the editor appeared, and the staff added "Pirates Speak," a section about student and teacher attitudes towards problems at Page. Girls' sports coverage increased, and coverage of school club activities, individual achievements, and administrative decisions were carried out.

The newspaper staff worked hard to bring the paper to the student body. Staff members wrote stories for deadlines and planned preliminary layouts. Copy was taken to the printer. The next step was to proofread the copy from the printer and do paste-ups. When the final issues were printed, staff members prepared them for distribution.

Twenty-one service club members made up the Inter-Service Club Council. Under the leadership of its president, Chuck King, the ISCC got the student directories out to the students before second semester. ISCC also sponsored the Christmas decorations of the school. Each service club was responsible for a certain section of the school to decorate. Under the supervision of Mr. Clendenin, the new service club lottery was organized by the ISCC. All new members of the service clubs were drawn at random. Meetings were held weekly for discussion of service club activities. Members worked together to solve problems of individual clubs and to coordinate joint projects.

Civitans aid athletic department

Civitans' major emphasis this year was towards helping the Page High School Athletic Department by selling tickets and refreshments at games and by helping to finance the new scoreboard. Athletic programs were sold by Civitans at football games and distributed at basketball games. Some of the services provided by Civitans for the school were flag raising activities during school days, maintenance of their area of G-wing during anti-litter campaigns, and decorating cars with red and white streamers. Outside activities included participation in the Holiday Jubilee Christmas Parade and various Tag Days held to benefit charities. Civitan meetings with brother and sister clubs were highlighted by attendance at the Civitan District Convention. Joint dinner meetings with Page Civinettes were festive occasions. The accomplishments of the Page High Civitans has made their club the 1970-71 service club of the year.

Members of the Page Junior Exchange service club participated in many different activities this year under the leadership of Chris Lowe.

The Junior Exchange supported its activities by making money from the sale of raincoats at the Greater Greensboro Open and taking a group tour of the Hanes-Lineberry Funeral Home.

Club members offered valuable service to both school and community by exerting time and effort in collecting for various tag days and working at Page on clean-up days. The Junior Exchange contributed money to the Appalachian Girls' School as they continued to become involved in their many activities.

Y-Teens participate in Project Sharp

Y-Teens worked to beautify their specified grounds on workdays as part of their contribution to Page. The members of this club under President Terri Blake decorated the halls for the Grimsley game to help build Page spirit. Other projects included Tag-Days, Project Sharp, and an Arts and Crafts Festival in the spring.

Hi-Y collects for tag-days

Under the leadership of Gary Hinshaw, Page's Hi-Y service club took part in various school and community activities. Members collected for tag days and participated in school work days for beautifying Page.

Hi-Y members boosted Pirate spirit by decorating for games. They also represented Page in the Hi-Y basketball tournament at the YMCA. They also planned an anti-pollution contest.

Greg Richardson led Interact this year as the service club sponsored a foreign exchange student as one of many projects.

Interact members took part in tag days and Project Sharp. They were also participants in work days. They attended district meetings, and held car washes and rallies as their money-making project this year.

Club members also donated a Pirate Case as a lasting reminder of their service to Page this year and in years to come.

Page Junior Jaycettes became involved with community youth as they sponsored a Christmas party at Smith Homes and gave much time to the Children's Home Society. They started with a big bang this year by winning the Miss Christmas Seal contest. Melinda Howell competed against other service clubs in collecting money. Jaycettes also participated in the Jaycees' Anti-Litter Week as well as the regular Page workdays. The most important project of the year, as always, was the GGO.

Junior Jaycees assist in clean-up after Greater Greensboro Open

New club members were selected through the new lottery system developed by the school board.

The club assisted the Greensboro Jaycee's with many of their yearly projects. Some of these projects were the National Blind Golfers'

Tournament, several paper drives, and the bag-of-bulbs sale. Junior Jaycee's participated in the State Junior Jaycee Convention in January. The major portion of second semester was spent working on the Greater Greensboro Open ticket sales, and tournament work.

The Junior Jaycees not only served the community, but also had service projects within the school. Among these service projects were workdays in the fall and spring, indoor clean-up days, and decoration of the halls before big games and at Christmas.

Leo Club sells plaques for project

Leo Club celebrated its first full year as a service club. The name Leo was chosen because the organization was started as a junior Lion Club. Under President Gent Gentry, the club helped the visually handicapped by donating a four-volume dictionary in large print to the school library. Members of Leo Club also participated at workdays and at the Teen-age Carnival. The sale of Pirate plaques raised money for the club treasury.

Page's Optimist Octagon Club practiced much involvement this year as they served in a variety of areas. Much time was spent in making their plot more attractive. Club members also collected for UNICEF and sold Christmas trees for their sponsoring club. Members also volunteered to work with underprivileged children. They ran a record-pull booth at the Teenage Carnival.

OHJs help out at Evergreens

O'Henry Juniors supported various projects around the school and community. The main project of the service club was their work at the Evergreen Rest Home. The girls served ice to the patients. Other projects included the Gold Door project, project SHARP, the support of a child in Vietnam, tag-days, and workdays at Page. OHJs sponsored the Beautification plaque given to the club who has had the largest participation at the workdays at Page.

The Faculty Basketball Game was the OHJ's money making project. It was held in February in the Grimsley gym. The Page faculty played against the Grimsley faculty.

These and other activities of the O'Henry Jrs. added to the spirit at Page during the school year.

Senioresses sponsor a senior citizen

Senioresses, led by Debbie Hughes, began an active year by filling Ditty Bags for Vietnamese children, by participating in Project Sharp, and by tutoring underprivileged Greensboro youth.

Other outside projects included bake-sales, visits with a senior citizen, the adoption of an underprivileged girl from Appalachia, filling Thanksgiving baskets for the needy, sponsoring parties for Cerebral Palsey children, and collecting money during Tag Days. Contributions to Page school spirit were made by donating money for the cheerleaders' summer camp, sessions decorating the halls of Page, editing spirit handbooks and cheer sheets, and by placing a boosters' ad in the Page newspaper.

Mugs with the Page emblem were sold as the money-making project.

Trash cans were placed in cigarette smoking areas to aid Page's anti litter campaign. Senioresses continued to maintain their plot of land throughout the year.

A Christmas tree was added to the Seniorette plot during the Christmas season.

GYC becomes voice of youth

Greensboro Youth Council played an active role in the coordination of youth programs for better total youth programming in Greensboro, and in the organization of new projects. The official line of communication between teenagers and adults of the city, the council tried to take a more active part in the affairs of the community.

Projects added this year included the Desegregation Survey, winning project at the summer Leadership Workshop. GYC sponsored the T.V. show called "Thirteenth Hour," Teen-Action Reports on WCOG, High School Beautiful, a newspaper called "Free Tymes," and Operation Christmas Tree. Service clubs at Page supported Project Sharp, Tag Days, and Miss Christmas Seal.

Squads assist in cleaning congestion from halls

Fort Alexander holds door for midday rush.

Under the leadership of Chuck Groves as Chief of Squads, Page's halls were effectively decongested this year. Squads worked together to keep our halls safe.

Squads were posted at various spots all over Page in order to regulate the confusion provoked by student traffic in the halls. They were assigned on a rotational system. Their work proved to be essential in making each school day move more quickly.

Safe busdrivers transport students

Bus drivers held many responsibilities in the daily transporting of students to and from school.

The activities of the bus drivers began early in the mornings with personal preparations and maintaining a steady pick up schedule. When threats of bad weather were announced, bus drivers kept close contact with weather and road conditions to utilize the safest possible route for transporting students. Safety was the ideal of the Page bus drivers.

Crew pre- pares stage

Page's stage crew played an important part in the preparation of all programs and assemblies. They were in charge of all lighting and electrical functions on the stage. The crew took the responsibility for all minor maintenance and worked voluntarily. Hard at work at drama plays, choir, band, and orchestra concerts, and National Honor Society inductions, the stage crew proved a valuable aid to Page.

Pirate Spirit Boosted by Band

Mike Busby led the Marching Pirates this year as the band was instructed by its new director, Mr. Shoffner. The Marching Pirates were assisted in presenting half-time shows at football games by four sharply dressed majorettes. The band also boosted spirit by playing for pep rallies. They took part in various concerts throughout the year as they made their musical contribution to Page.

Orchestra performs in numerous concerts

The first part of the year was devoted to a study of the theoretical background of music, since many of the sophomores came from divergent musical backgrounds. For the first time brass and wind players took orchestra for credit. The Christmas program was Corelli's Concerto Grosso 8. This year the Grimsley and Page orchestras combined to perform a requiem by Gabriel Faure in memory of Smith's choral director. Again the orchestra played for a Civitan Banquet, the State Orchestra Festival, and the North Carolina All-State Orchestra. Some of the members ushered at Greensboro Symphony Concerts.

FHS promotes culture of France

Page's Société Honoraire de Français met once a month under the leadership of the president, Mel Bringle. Now in its second year of organization, the French Honor Society was set up as an honorary organization with its members from third, fourth, and fifth levels of French. With Mrs. Howerton and Mrs. Joines as advisors, the club had programs where those members of the Society fortunate enough to have visited France shared their adventures and experiences in Europe with the other members. Their meetings promoted a better understanding of the French people and culture.

Page Future Homemakers of America sold candles and had a cake sale to make money for their projects. Under the leadership of Lucy Williams and Mrs. Suggs, the group enjoyed a year of projects aimed at helping others. In November the members gave a Thanksgiving dinner to a family. FHA members brought holiday spirit to four children by giving them Christmas presents.

FHA met on the average of three times a month. At these meetings the members made plans for future projects and discussed ways to carry them out. The completed projects took a great deal of time and hard work. FHA had a successful year as all members worked together.

VICA members hold state and district offices

Page's Vocational Industrial Club of America is a national organization that consists of students in drafting, carpentry, and industrial co-operative training classes.

New officers were installed at a meeting in October. The new members were inducted at a meeting held in November.

One of the tasks performed by VICA was help in the organization of a new VICA chapter at Ragsdale High School. Other projects included Project Sharp and school beautification. The money making project enabled VICA to participate in competitive events with other VICA chapters.

COO students gain office skills

Members of the Cooperative Office Occupations Club took courses at Page in the morning and worked in the afternoon. This combination made it possible for the members to gain credit for graduation and earn salaries at the same time. COO met monthly to plan activities such as the Parents' Night Program and field trips to companies. The members had a Christmas party and helped a needy family with food and presents. COO members also planned and carried out a dinner for their bosses, the Employer-Employee Banquet.

Cheers learned at camp help build spirit

Martha Crutchfield led the 1970-71 cheerleaders, with Nancy Hermanson as co-head, on to a very successful year. This year the cheerleaders had an opportunity to go to cheerleading camp. Many new and different ideas were taught and shared. Skits and soul cheers aided the spirit of Page. Along with all the hard work in cheering, the cheerleaders spent time preparing refreshments for football, basketball, and wrestling teams. Cheerleaders also sold corsages for the homecoming game, activity cards for all sports events, and bus tickets for away games. The selection of the cheerleaders was done by the judges instead of by the voting of the student body.

Senior players never see defeat by whirlies

With ambition and determination, the football team fought their way toward many outstanding victories. For the third straight year, the Pirates were undefeated by the Whirlies, this year by a score of 24-8. The Pirates also defeated both Dudley and Smith, thus proving to be undefeated in the city.

The success of such a fine season was due to the return of many outstanding players. Ray Harrison, the most outstanding player in Greensboro, finished the season as an All-Conference, All-State, and All-American player. Kim Smith, chosen to play in the East-West All-Star Game, also proved to be outstanding. The team was strengthened by such players as Johnny McMillan, Phil Wise, Ken Robinson, and Orsure Wray Stokes.

With great coaching, spirit, and skill, the Pirates completed a fine season with a 7-3 record.

Pirate JV's defeat GHS

With a hard-hitting defense and a fast-moving offense, the Baby Bucs were able to complete their season with a final record of six wins and three losses. The JV's first victory was over Grimsley by a score of 22-0 with Page scoring 22 points in the last quarter. The Baby Bucs went on to win other important victories over Dudley, Burlington, and Thomasville.

Many outstanding plays were made by quarterback Tim Harris, while linebackers Mike Smith, Bill Watson, and Bill Murray helped to maintain a good offensive position. Another outstanding player was Tony Luther, who led the team in making touchdowns. With the help of fine coaching, the JV's ended with a successful season.

Page's basketball team activated its 1970-71 season with a bench of untried players. Only returning varsity team members were Ray Harrison and Chris Lowe, both of whom executed genuine leadership on the court. Harrison, a guard, was leading scorer for the season and a most outstanding player. Senior basketball players were Kim Smith, Randy Alexander, Chris Lowe, Eddie Westmoreland, and Ray Harrison. These players were backed up by two sophomore players and junior players, including Bill Brown and Todd Fields. Brown, Fields, and Smith exhibited much skill as defensive players.

The Pirate basketball team, under the instruction of coach Mac Morris, concluded its season with an equality of wins and losses, the final record being 11-11. Pirates look forward to the return of many experienced players for the next successful season.

Page ends season with ten wins

The 1969-70 baseball team, head coached by Bob Phillips and assistant coached by Dwight Bartlett, started its practice early in February. Making preparations for the season, the team got in shape by running and practicing throws in the gym until warmer weather arrived and then shaped up their baseball skills.

The pre-conference season ended with only one loss, but the conference losses dipped to five. The final record of the season was 10-6.

Several outstanding players contributed much toward the ten victories. Larry Sams fanned many batters and was the team's main pitcher. Bill Russell was an outstanding batter and received the trophies "Most Valuable Player" and "Best Batting Average" at the end of the season. Kim Smith, a very versatile player, proved to be a valuable catcher as well as outfielder and pitcher. Glenn Robertson also showed outstanding skill in his main position of short stop.

Tennis team wins top seat

Aided by the return of many outstanding players, the Page tennis team finished with a first place in the conference. Bill Brown ended the season as conference champion in singles, while Bill Kent ended with only one loss. Coached by Mac Morris, the team had an overall record of 7-2.

Golfers place twelfth in state

In 1969-70, the Page golf team compiled a 3-2-1 record. From a total of twelve teams in the Conference tournament, Page placed fourth. The golfers tied for seventh place in the sectional tournament and twelfth in the state.

Individuals who helped the team the most were John Eichhorn, who had the fewest strokes in conference matches, Tee Hall, and Tom Nelson.

Pirates tie for fifth in state

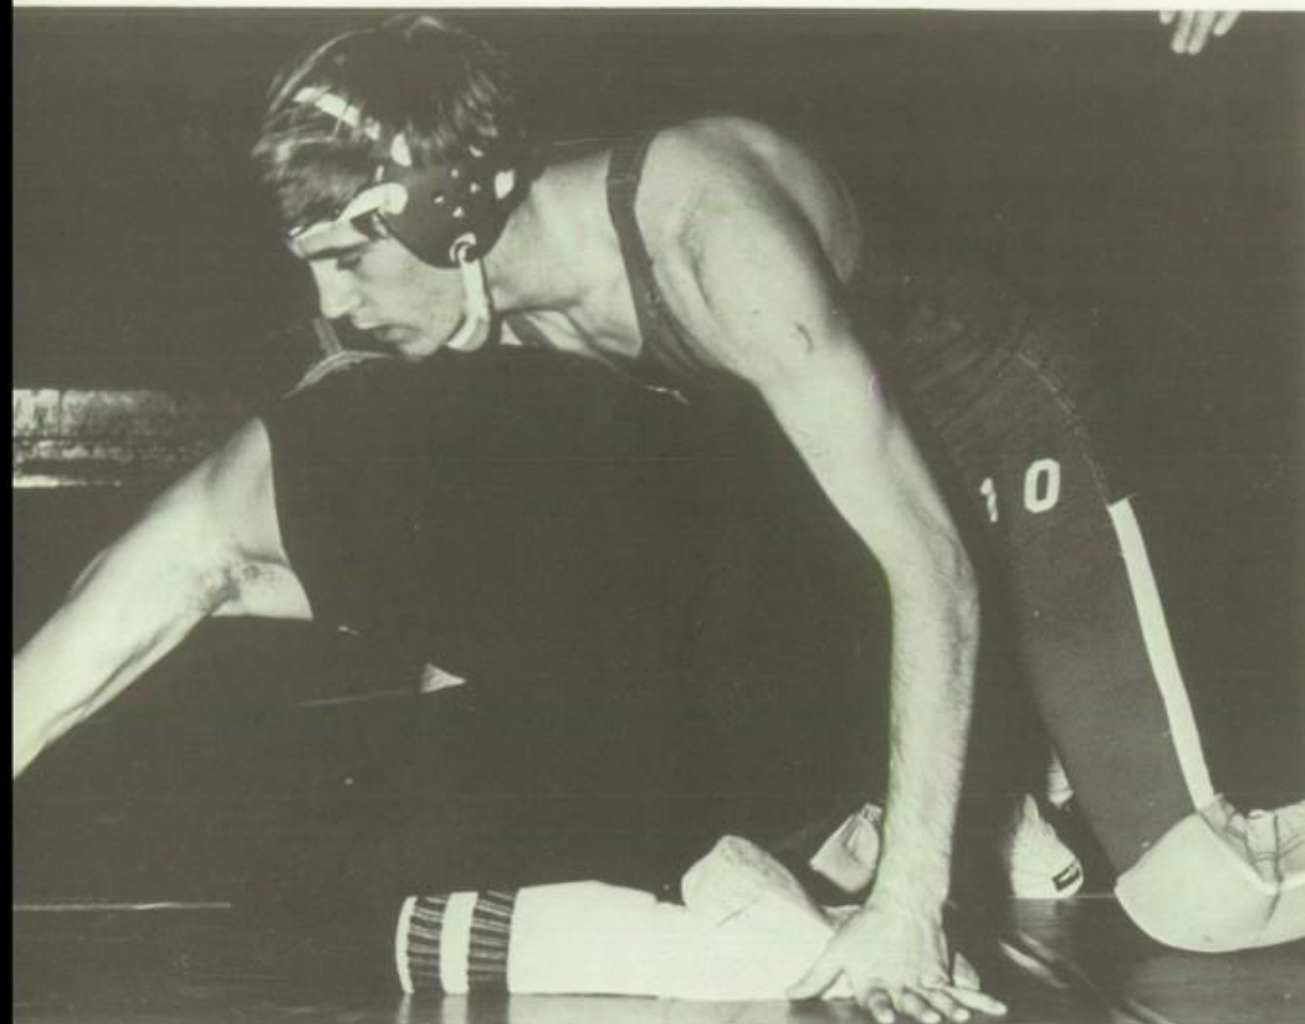

Page swimmers posted a winning season for the fourth straight year. The outstanding showing was against High Point Andrews in which Page posted a perfect score. The team was coached by Bob Phillips and captain was Greg Richardson.

Each morning from 6:00 to 7:45 the tankmen practiced at Fairview Recreation Center. This is Page's longest athletic season as it lasts from October through March.

Wrestlers go undefeated for third year

The loss of the wrestling coaches was not enough to hold the team from an undefeated season for the third year in a row. Under the able coaching of Coach Yakin and Coach Crotts, the Pirates declared the 51st match a victory. The last loss of the team was in 1967.

Smith proved to be the toughest team to compete against, and not only did the Pirates win, but they handed Smith the worst defeat in the history of the schools in their second match of the season.

Page ended the season with four undefeated wrestlers. Farrell Snotherly, a senior and a co-captain, pinned every man with whom he came in contact during the season. He also claimed the quickest pin of the year, which was 23 seconds. Another senior, Rick Amos, set a Page record by pinning 15 of the 17 opponents he faced. Only one of his opponents got through the full six minutes of wrestling. Bill Young, also in his last year at Page, had an excellent season—a 17-0 record. Mike Sims, another co-captain, was the fourth undefeated wrestler and he will return next year for his last year of wrestling. Other outstanding wrestlers include Brooks Jacobs, also a co-captain, who suffered only one loss, which was due to an ankle injury; Fred Marshall, a junior who had only two losses of 16 matches; and Mike Petty, a wrestler who recovered from knee surgery to defeat the captain of the Smith team who had previously been undefeated. Carl Gentry and Melvin Manning, sophomores, recorded 25 individual victories between them.

Page ends as sectional champs

With the skills possessed by many of the players, Page's track team had a most successful year. The performances of such runners as Al Powell who ran the mile, and Jack Wagoner who ran the 100 yard dash, led the team to a record of seven wins and three losses and the Sectional Championship.

Other outstanding trackmen, such as Ray Harrison and Maurice Spencer, added much to the overall team accomplishments.

Sellars among top twenty runners in state

Long hard practices were the scene for Page Harriers as they strived for perfection in their running. Their efforts were rewarded by placing well in every meet. Although the team as a whole did not qualify for the state meet, three outstanding individuals represented Page, one of which was among the top twenty in the state. Outstanding runners this year such as Randy Sellers, who broke the school record, Bill Brown, Doug Sides, and Keith Dodson, aided in placing third in the conference. Coach Phillips has great outlooks for next year's team, for many of his top runners will be returning.

New stress on girls' basketball

The girls' varsity basketball team had a fine season this year. The team lacked experience with only four returning players, but the nine sophomores on the team displayed unusual poise and ability. Co-captains for the 1970-71 season were Cathy Burke and Lynn Myers. The leading scorer for the Pirates was Jan Bridges while Lynn Myers and Susan Davidson were outstanding ball handlers.

English teachers evaluate new system

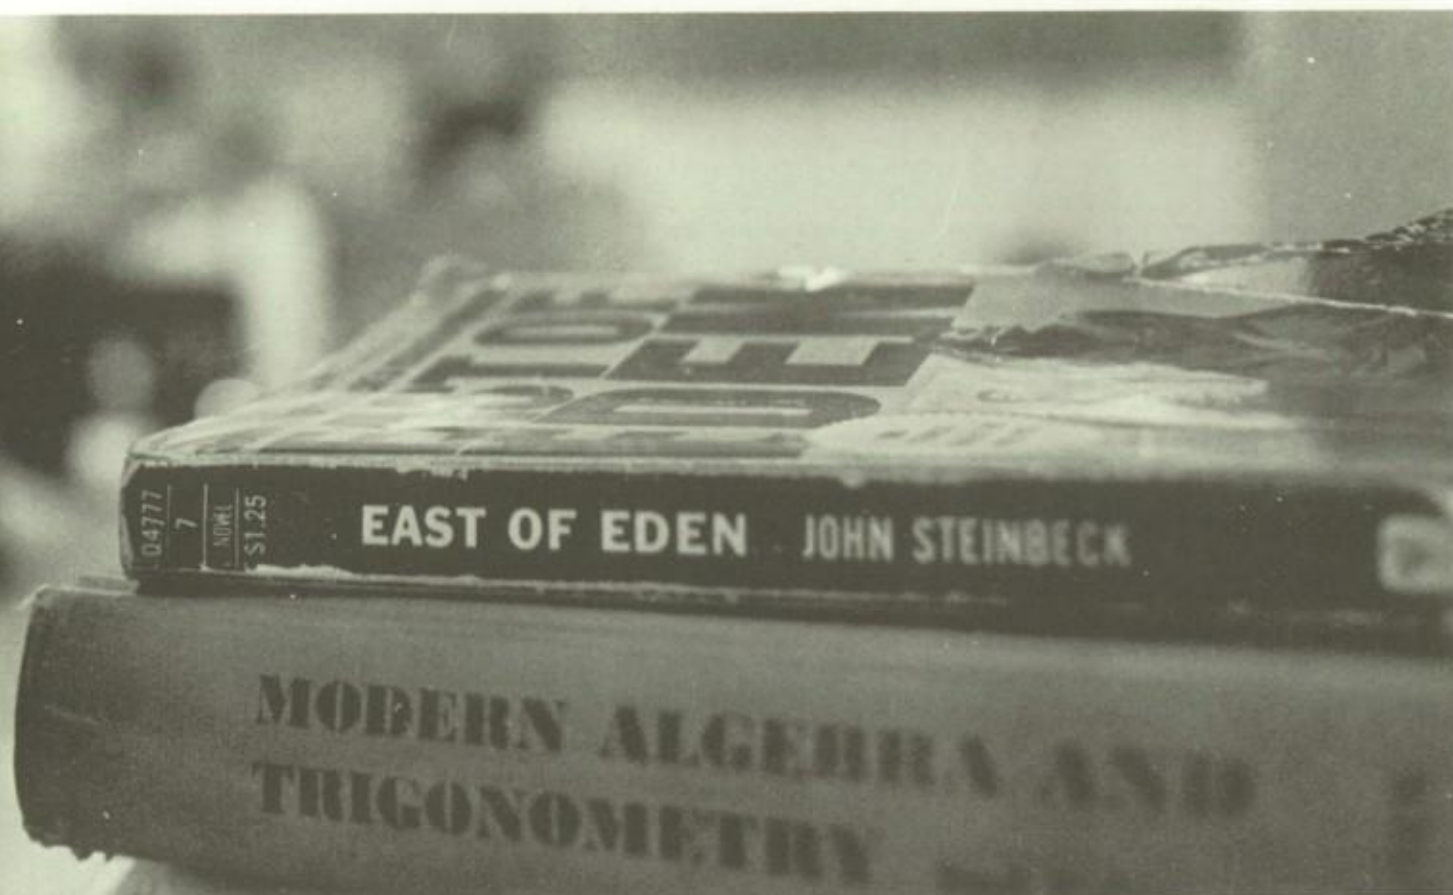

During the summer, six English language arts teachers studied and revised course descriptions which were used last year. To do this, they made use of recommendations made by students and teachers at the end of last year. Much additional material was made available that would be useful to both students and teachers. Third level Composition and third level Reading were replaced by Intermediate Composition and Intermediate Reading. Two entirely new courses, Linguistics and World Literature, were outlined, bringing the total available number of English courses to fifty.

Brett Nelson works industriously on exam project in Art.

New technique introduced in Art

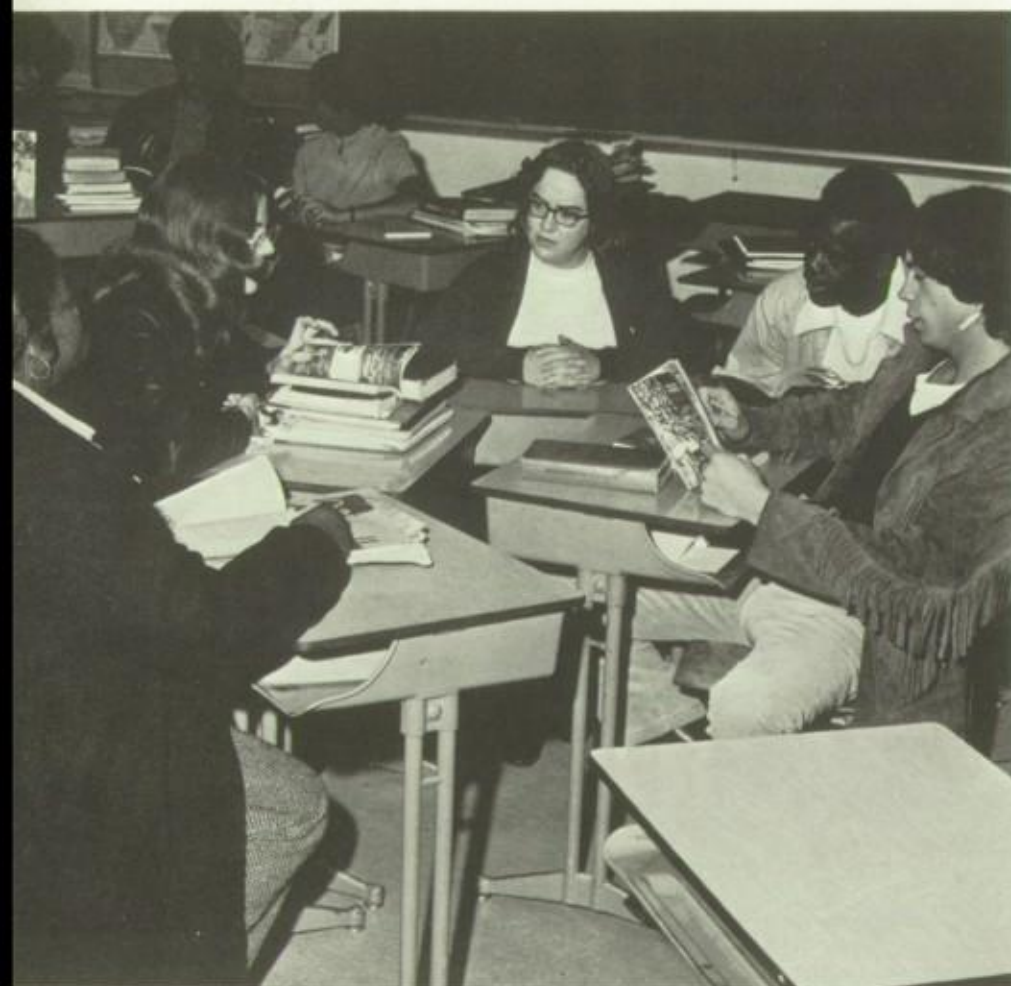

In Art this year students experimented with a new technique in addition to the usual painting, sculpture, and graphics. In level four, batik, a form of fabric design using melted wax and permanent dye, was taught to broaden the students' knowledge of art in crafts. Students were encouraged to participate in city-wide exhibits and national contests.

African History course introduced

A new course, African History, was added to the Social Studies curriculum this year. This course enabled students to acquire a knowledge of the history of Africa through its cultures-art, music, literature, and religion.

Social Studies courses covered history, geography, government, sociology, psychology, and current affairs. These courses were aimed to give students understandings of the past in order to live in the present.

French V offered for first time

French V was offered for the first time to those interested students who wanted to continue their knowledge of the language. Much time was devoted to independent projects.

French and Spanish students studied under the AL-M method in which dialog, basic sentences, and drills were learned. Through the classroom, language laboratory, and native speakers, students were aided in perfecting pronunciation. Third, fourth, and fifth year students read works by French and Spanish authors from textbooks, periodicals, and library books. Writing compositions allowed upper level students to put their learning to use.

Latin students studied classical mythology and history along with the language to enable them to understand the influence of Latin in fine arts and to develop an appreciation of the language.

Interested Latin students participated in Saturnalia and other holiday celebrations to become better acquainted with ancient life.

Circles, squares, and triangles intrigue geometry students

There were several math courses offered at Page this year progressing from basic ideas to more complex concepts. General math was a fundamental course offered to sophomores. Studies in first year, second year, and advanced algebra included equations, inequalities, and complex numbers. Deductive reasoning was taught in geometry classes as students explored proofs and constructions. Trigonometry familiarized students with logarithms, rectangular and polar coordinates, and reduction formulas. Both analytic geometry and calculus were included in the study of analytics.

Recognizing the extreme ecological danger presented by one of the major issues of today, pollution, Biology classes worked to combat this problem on a community level. Students worked individually and collectively on projects attacking some of the most common and widespread causes in our area. Chemistry students investigated the nature and behavior of matter and energy through research and extensive experimentation. Physics involved more advanced scientific study in the areas of electro-magnetic forces, wave motion, and atomic and nuclear physics.

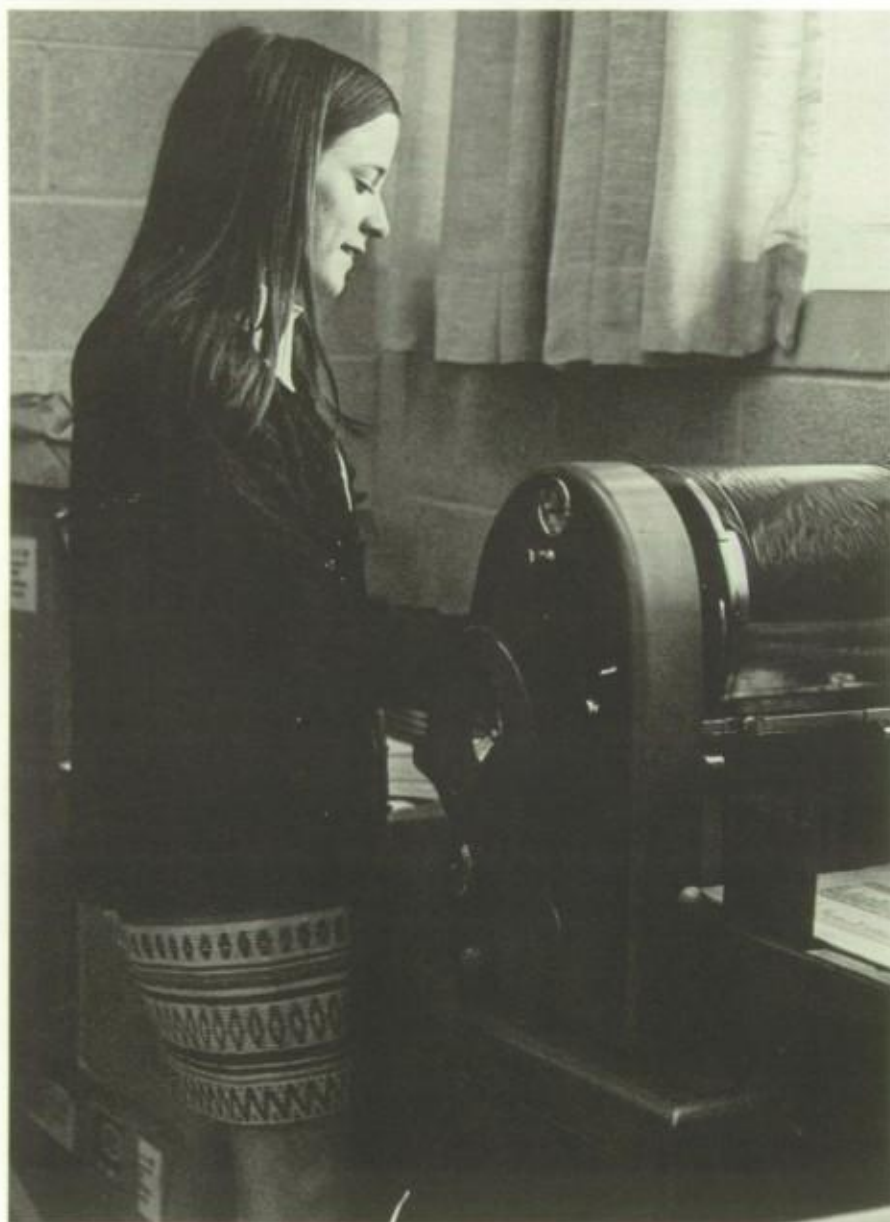

Geometry class listens attentively as Mrs. Sanders explains a difficult proof.

Students learn in work-study program

The Vocational Education Department served to coordinate the school-work program, thus providing for qualified students not only a high school education but also experience in chosen occupational areas. Distributive Education offered on-the-job training in selling, marketing, and distributive fields. The Industrial Cooperative Training Program was designed to give training in trade and technical occupations. In the Cooperative office Practical Program students studied office practices in the classroom prior to vocational experience as typists, receptionists, and stenographers.

ICT student Philip White repairs motor.

Courses in office skills train students with business ambitions

Some of the more specialized business courses such as Business Law, Business English, Business Economics, Bookkeeping, and Clerical Office Practices served to prepare students for future office work and other jobs of a clerical nature. Courses such as typing and Shorthand combined skills for general office practice with those for every day living. Typing in particular proved to be a valuable aid for students preparing themes and research papers in other areas of study.

Business Students work diligently to improve typing skills.

Data Processing students learn new business techniques.

Music department students were fortunate to be instructed by such skilled conductors as Mr. Fincher, Mr. LaBella, and Mr. Shoffner. Many fine performances gave evidence of the growth of students' musical abilities.

Cellists rehearse for future performances.

Phys. Ed. stresses team sports

Much time this year was spent on team sports in physical education. The teachers felt that team sports helped to develop good sportsmanship along with individual skills.

The girls started the year with gymnastics and tumbling, which helped them to acquire more control over body movements. After these activities, they enjoyed basketball, volleyball, and folk dancing.

The physical education classes for the boys prepared them for the extra-curricular sports.

Eager students take driver's ed.

Driver's Education courses enjoyed another surge of popularity as eager sophomores quickly took advantage of the opportunity to develop defensive driving techniques. Safe driving was taught in the classroom, and was followed up by using such acquired knowledge during the actual driving sessions. Such sessions were conducted under the supervision of the able instructors.

Driver's Training car awaits new students.

Driver-Ed, student tries again.

Home Economics prepares students for the future

Home Economics students undertook a variety of projects this year in and outside of class. Students worked on individual sewing projects as they put into practice the skills learned in the classroom.

Proper cooking and homemaking techniques were also learned and applied. Discussions and demonstrations were constant learning tools. Home Economics students learned basic skills which could be put into practical use each day.

Abilities are strengthened by Special Education

Page was privileged to have three exceptionally skilled instructors for its Special Education program this year. Mr. Franklin, Mrs. Rogers, and Miss Deleot gave individual consideration to students.

Special Education courses are aimed at aiding special students in attaining their greatest potential. Special classes help the student to develop his abilities to the fullest possible extent in a learning situation geared to fit his needs.

'World's Finest Chocolate' breaks records.

Expectantly, Sophomores entered Page this fall, awaiting the challenges of high school life. After the first bewildering days, members of the class of 1973 proved their worthiness to Page by becoming active in school activities. Preliminary steps toward class success began with the election of Jeff Poole as president. Under his leadership, "World's Finest Chocolate" was a success at Page, breaking all previous records. As the year ended, the sophomores looked back on an exciting year, knowing that they had truly become a part of Page's personality.

Juniors' enthusiasm pilots a successful year

Returning in the fall to the familiar halls of Page, the juniors prepared themselves for what proved to be a busy year.

Preliminary steps toward success began with the election of Steve Dingledein as class president. As individuals and as a group, the middle classmen accomplished such undertakings as the traditional class project, and highlighted their year with the presentation of an enjoyable prom to the graduating senior class. Together with the usual events and college preparatory tests, the juniors ended another year with overwhelming pride in their school. Through their diligent work and organized efforts, they firmly established themselves as an integral part of Page's personality.

The senior class of Page entered school this year anxious to follow the traditions of former seniors. The hassel of summer pictures was over and studying began once more. The ordering of caps, gowns, and invitations broke the monotony of the routine day, as did senior class meetings. Out of these meetings came a new idea for raising money for Class Day and a class gift. Instead of selling candy or Christmas cards, a dollar was collected from each senior and placed in the class treasury.

Seniors who had been successful in one way or another through their high school years were recognized before they went their separate ways. The class of 1971 met for graduation in June not to end their accomplishments but to begin to seek new positions in the world.

Jackie,
It's been a great year in speech. As far as speech goes,
I've been a great listener. I've sometimes been sitting behind you, and I've been able to hear you. I hope the rest of the year is as good as this. I'm

Emptiness
Is what People leave Behind.

A key is only as good
As the lock it opens.
A man is only as good
As the life he lives.

Now, at last, I can breathe a sigh of relief. The last caption is written, the last copy typed, and the last picture cropped. Frankly, at times I doubted that this day would ever come, and without the help of scores of people it wouldn't have. To all those who gave so willingly when asked, I am grateful.

To Mr. Goldston, Mrs. Walker, Mr. Edwards, and Hunter Publishing Co. for all their guidance; to the many Greensboro businesses who aided us financially; to the Greensboro newspapers for their fantastic sports pictures; to Mrs. Hunt for all her patience and supervision and her topnotch business staff; to the entire yearbook staff which cooperated fully and unselfishly; a great thanks to Susan Webster to whom I give full credit for the copy in the introduction and conclusion; and thanks goes especially to Miss Morris whose guidance and warm personality literally made this publication possible.

Jack,

It's been great getting to know you better this semester, and I hope our friendship doesn't fade after graduation. You're really a great guy with huge possibilities.
Make the best of them!

Good luck with "her"!

Love,
Ann

Jack,

It's great to have you
in history! Good Luck in all you attempt!

Brenda

Jack,
 It has been great
 knowing you this year.
 Our discussions in homeroom and family relations have all been a riot. Watch out for girls who give you rings to wear. Stay just as you are and everything will be O.K. Keep the faith and much success in all things you attempt in the future.
 (A.F.A.)
 Jim (the old M. man)

With best wishes,
 Winifred L. Woodruff

Jack,
 It's been nice sitting in front of you this past semester.
 You are a very nice
 guy. I hope you stay this way. Have a nice summer. Have a terrific graduation.

Hood Luck,
 Margaret

It's been so great knowing you while you were in school.
 I hope you have a great future.

Lots of luck

Wayne.

I can't say it hasn't been a unique experience knowing you, Jackie. In fact it's been an erotic thrill (for shepherd).
Personally, I have found our "relationship" quite interesting and extremely of all precariouly balanced. In spite of all your dirty jokes, corny tales, and constant preaching, your personality shines through like a butane flame in infra-red light. I really have enjoyed knowing you and as Søren Kierkegaard would say, you are a "solitary individual" who, by all rights, should go far. I hope you and Judy ~~Randy~~ ~~Chiff~~ Dobby hit it off well, settle down, and raise a family of weirdos just like your parents did. Keep in touch, write a letter or something next year or I'll try & do the same.
Thanks for helping to make it a wonderful year!
Sincerely,
James ~~Wayne~~

Dearest Jacklen,
This year has been my best - knowing you
and your stupid actions.
You have a great sense of humor but where do you keep it - in your little toe. You have natural much though the years I have known you and I hope you keep ~~it~~ maturing fully. -- Every where. Keep this in mind -- You are a great kid and a swell friend. I hope you and Debbie make it through the years = Lasting lovers. We're lasting friends which is much better. Hope to see you after graduation duck brain.

I've really enjoyed working with you this year,
Jack. People like you make teaching more inviting. Good luck
in all you do.

Well, after 3 long, hard years - we've made it! I don't believe it was luck - but instead hard work and good times.
I hope your future holds great things
